

20" Tea Party – plastic wrap removal script (PG/Lyons)

Our seven-year-old girl is in her bedroom having a tea party with her stuffed/plastic animal toys. She's about to drop some good news:

*Girl: Good news: As you might've heard (from monkey)

We cut to the pack-shots.

*Girl: PG Tips/Lyons Tea removed the plastic wrapper,

So they are now totally plant based:

Back to her.

*Girl: I'm ditching ALL the plastic I can! All of it!

We see all of her toys, some which are obviously made of PLASTIC, sitting around the table. She goes to comfort them...

*Girl: I don't mean you, guys.

Just before sipping on her cuppa, she adds a low...

*Girl: ...for now.

We see a pack of PG tips. On screen, we can read:

LOGO: PG tips.

SUPER: Now (fully) biodegradable.

Tea Party – Extended version

A seven-year-old girl is in her bedroom having a tea party with her stuffed animal toys. She's not the stereotypical little girl, but a wildlife fan with paintings of animals and nature hanging on the walls. We hear a playful march rhythm. Once everyone has its cuppa ready, she starts her speech:

Girl: Alright, everyone, I want to address the elephant in the room.
No, not you, Lola.

She addresses the stuffed elephant sitting in one of the chairs. She points at the PG tips box on the table.

Girl: The tea! We're switching to PG Tips now. These tea bags are "bio...degradable. Thanks, Monkey...

She takes a look at everyone, before continuing.

Girl: While some... STILL use PLASTIC! Did you know that?

She takes a pause, and we see all the stuffed animals sitting around the table... in silence. We see a stuffed shark with its mouth open.

Girl: I know. I would be speechless, too...

Girl: They are made of polyp... polypropylene ...
POLYPROPYLENE - thanks, George- and that means a lot of plastic waste.

TIME PERMITTING

Girl: How much plastic? Good question, monkey.

The chorus starts singing. The girl goes to the blackboard behind her, to start writing numbers on it, as she explains:

Girl: 66 million of us, two cuppas a day,
365 days a year, I carry the one...

She's too young to know how to multiply, so she doubts for a second...

Girl: That's... a lot.

She turns around to face her toys, and continues.

Girl: But we can change this. All of us. Even you...

She addresses one of the stuffed animals at the table: it's a Yorkshire dog with a red cup. She takes the cup away.

As she continues her speech. She points at the globe on the shelf, and makes it spins round a little.

Girl: Personally, I dream of a better future for my parents.

She gives her toys an optimistic look and addresses the cat on the cushion.

Girl: All in favor, say "I" ...or "miau".

We hear the music crescendoing to its great finale and see some stuffed animals' faces.

Girl: PG Tips it is. Good! Now, back to me, (she keeps talking)...

We hear the party going on in the background, as the music finishes.

We see a pack of PG tips. On screen, we read:

SUPER: Make the switch.

LOGO: PG tips. Biodegradable tea bags.